CONTENTS

Fall Focus:
Students as Change Agents

Undergraduate Research on UR Leads to College-Wide Change .......................................................... 8
—Margaret A. Anderson, Kimberly Filer, Julie S. Lyon

Undergraduate Research as a Catalyst for Institutional Change ............................................................... 13
—Andrea M. Karkowski, Jody S. Fournier,

Broader Impacts of Undergraduate Research at a Community College:
Opening Doors to New Ideas ................................................................................................................... 17
—LaRoy S.E. Brandt, Jack Lee Hayes

The Impact of Student-Directed Research at an Undergraduate Liberal Arts Institution ......................... 22
—Michaela A. Gazdik, Jason D. Powell

Undergraduate Researchers Become Change Agents for Sustainability ................................................. 28
—Laura Pawlow, William Retzlaff

Other Articles

From the International Desk: Undergraduate Researchers Change Learning and Teaching—
A Case Study in Australia and the United Kingdom ................................................................................ 33
—Sally Sandover, Lee Partridge, Elisabeth Dunne, Sue Burkill

A Circular Model for Framing the Undergraduate Research Experience ........................................... 40
—Sebastian van Delden

Departments

From the President—Mary Crowe ........................................................................................................... 2
CURQ on the Web ................................................................................................................................ 2
From the Executive Officer—Elizabeth Ambos .................................................................................... 4
Calendar ................................................................................................................................................. 5
From the Issue Editor—Janet E. Stocks ................................................................................................. 6
Meet the CUR Quarterly and CURQ on the Web ............................................................................... 7
Book Review: Engaging Student Voices in the Study of Teaching and Learning ................................... 48
—Amelia J. Ahern-Rindell

www.cur.org