

Front Cover

Undergraduate Research Celebration Days

Benedictine College's Annual Discovery Week promotes a campus climate that invigorates learning by providing students the opportunity to showcase their own works. Picture here is Benedictine student Mary Quinn with her project at the Discover Day Exhibit. (page 154)

photo courtesy of Giovanni Misceo
and J. Michael O'Hare

contents

June Focus on Undergraduate Research Celebration Days — Part 1

A Celebration of Learning — *Ellen A. Hay*151
 Integrating Scholarship in Undergraduate Education — *Giovanni F. Misceo and J. Michael O'Hare*154
 The University of California - Irvine Undergraduate Research Symposium
 — A Research University Perspective — *Said M. Shokair*160
 The Breadth and Depth of Research Performance Fairs in PUI's — *Helga Noice*165

Other Articles

CUR Undergraduate Research Posters on the Hill — Our Message is Heard by America's Representatives
 — *K. Elaine Hoagland*177
 Pollution in the Sand — Field Research at the Core of an Interdisciplinary Science Course
 — *James P. Bolender and Michel A. Boudrias*180

Departments

From the Editor — *Helga Noice*148
 From the President — *Michael Nelson*149
 From the National Executive Officer — *K. Elaine Hoagland*150
 Undergraduate Research Highlights168
 Institutional Research Highlights
 — Institutional Programs in Support of Undergraduate Research at the University of South Dakota — *Holly R. Straub and Royce C. Engstrom*170
 CUR National Office News186
 CUR Volunteer of the Year — *Jill Singer*186
 Undergraduate Researcher's Graduate School Registry186
 2002 CUR Councilors187
 CUR Announces the 2002 Summer Fellowship Awardees189
 Membership Renewal Time190
 CUR Calendar190
 Submission Guidelines and Letters to the Editor Policy191
 News from Inside and Outside of CUR — *Anne Skinner*192

Back Cover — Left to right - Student Davyeon Ross gives a Discovery Day presentation at Benedictine College. University of San Diego students Nichole DiStafano and Sarah Douglass obtain sediment samples from Punta del Gato. Posters on the Hill students and their faculty mentors hear an introduction by Congressman Rush Holt during this April's event.