

Front Cover

Environmental Research with Undergraduates

Students from Ellis School in Pittsburgh do investigative waterway research throughout the school year while participating in Creek Connections at Allegheny College. From left to right, Adrienne Atterberry, Cara Castelli, Jessica Bopp, and Whitney Henry, are assisted by Laura Branby, Creek Connections Field Educator, as they identify aquatic insects caught in French Creek.

photo courtesy of Eric Pallant

contents

December Focus on Environmental Research with Undergraduates

Creating Collaborations — *Eric Pallant*56
 Environmental Science versus Environmental Studies at Juniata College — *Paula J. S. Martin*61
 Ideas So Old that They are New: A Traditional Approach to Environmental Education — *Louise M. Weber*67
 The Environmental Science Minor: A Disciplinary Approach to Interdisciplinary Studies with a Grounding in Undergraduate Research — *Brian E. Bodenbender, Edward C. Hansen, Graham F. Peaslee and Jonathan W. Peterson*72

Other Articles

A Passion for Learning and Exploring Neuroscience — *Julio Ramirez*77
 Building Critical Mass through the Formation of a Student Undergraduate Research Organization
 — *Amir John Hendiani and Shawn B. Allin*80
 Proposal Writing — CUR’s Newest Institute — *I. David Reingold*85
 Council on Undergraduate Research Facilitates Partnerships in Materials Research — *K. Elaine Hoagland*86

Departments

From the Editor — *Dr. Anant Godbole*52
 From the President — *Dr. Toufic Hakim*53
 From the National Executive Officer — *Dr. Elaine Hoagland*54
 CUR National Office News92
 2000-2001 Institutional Members92
 CUR 2001 Councilor Elections Reminder94
 CUR Calendar94
 Letters to the Editor Policy94
 Submission Guidelines95
 News from Inside and Outside of CUR — *Dr. Anne Skinner*96